

Applied Nanoscience and Nanotechnology for Digital Connectivity

Dr. Muhammad Imran
University of Glasgow, UK

Abstract

The talk will review some of the cutting-edge digital connectivity solutions emerging globally – including 6G. It will review the field of joint communication and sensing and then present a case for Nanoscale technology for compact and sustainable future electronic devices. Some research from University of Glasgow team will be presented in this field.